Vicksburg is now so strongly fortified that it is believed it could not be taken even by Gen. Grant. New York is crowded with visitors. There are one hundred thousand strangers in the metropolis, and the New Orleans take 'em all in.

The coffin of the King of Denmark weighed 3,000 pounds. It took thirty men an hour and a quarter to get it down the grand staircase. There were 20,000 or 30,000 men in the funeral procession.

Jeff Davis's plantation is turned into a contraband camp. His property is confiscated, if he is not. All his slaves are now free, though he took the greatest pains to preserve them and to himself all the blessings of slavery.

The annual revenue of pews in H. W. Beecher's church, amounts this year to $21,000, which is the largest sum received by any church in the United States.

The American fleet of iron-clads, says the London Times, in point of numbers, is incomparably the strongest in the world, being more numerous than the squadrons of all other countries put together.

"Well, what next?" said Mrs. Partridge, as she interrupted like, who was reading the war news. "The pickets driven in five miles! Bless my poor soul, but that will be a strong fence! I s'pose they had to drive 'em in, to keep the secessionists from digging under them."

The doctors are recommending whiskey, both as a cure and preventive of diphtheria. The remedy is popular, and the immense strides that medical science is making in the art of preserving life, are very generally admired.

The Prince Imperial of France made his debut at Compiègne as an amateur performer. He was dressed à la Watteau, and the lords and ladies danced round a maypole, while verses were sung in honor of the Emperor.

The Empress of France has given practical testimony to the advantages of life assurance by taking out policies on her life to the amount of a million dollars. The London Times states that "the proposal is made with the immediate sanction, if not the immediate suggestion of the Emperor, who guarantees the payment of a considerable portion of the premiums."

It is proposed by a company to construct sewers and supply water conduits in the city of Jerusalem. There are still evidences remaining that water was once had there in great abundance. The great reservoir beneath the Temple, 736 feet in circuit and 42 in depth, held 2,000,000 of gallons—and there were upward of 80 smaller reservoirs connected with it. The Pool of Bethesda, now dry, contained 21,742 gallons; and the Pools of Solomon, about seven miles distant from the city, held 50,130,820.

The trustees of George Peabody's munificent gift of £150,000 to the poor of London, have decided to appropriate the fund, or the larger part of it, to the erection of buildings in suitable localities to furnish lodgings for the poor. One of the proposed buildings has already been finished, and the lodgings are about to be let. It is four stories high, covering an area of 8,000 square feet. It contains, besides stairways, a street, no less than 57 "dwellings" of one, two, or three rooms each. Besides this first building, sites have been purchased for five others, and there are funds in hand for four more.

DANISH DIFFICULTY EXPLAINED BY "PUNCH."
Punch observes: "Young persons who dine out, and wish to be considered as refined young diners-out, must desire to be able to answer, in a few simple words, the question so frequently put as to the real value of the difficulty about the King of Denmark's accession to the Schleswig-Holstein duchies. Mr. Punch will explain the matter in a moment. The case is this: King Christian, being an agnostic, is the collateral heir male of the German Diet, and, consequently, the Duchy of Holstein, being mediatised, could only have ascended to the Landgrave of Hesse in default of consanguinity in the younger branch of the Schleswig-Holstein family. The Duke of Schleswig, by the surrender of the Duke of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha, was acquired as a fief in remainder of the mortgage marriage of Frederick VII. This is clear enough, of course.

The difficulty, however, arises from the fact that while the Danish protest of 1852, which was drawn up by Lord Palmerston, but signed by Lord Malmesbury, repudiated ex post facto the claims of Princess Mary of Anhalt, as remainder under the Electress of Augustenburg, it only operated as a quid pro quo in reference to the interests of Prince Christian of Schleswig-Holstein-Sonderburg-Glücksburg, while Baron Bunsen's protest against Catholicism, under the terms of the edict of Nantes, of course barred the whole of the lineal ancestry of the Grand Duke from claiming by virtue of the Salic clause the Pragmatic Sanction. The question is, therefore, exhaustively reduced to a very narrow compass, and the dispute simply is, whether an agnostic who is not consanguineous can, as a Lutheran, hold a fief which is clothed by a mediatisation with the character of a neutral belligerent. This is really all that is at issue, and those who seek to complicate the case by introducing the extraneous statement, true, no doubt, in itself, that the Princess of Wales, who is the daughter of the present King of Denmark, has no political renunciation of either of the duchies or the ivory hair brushes, when she dined with Lord Mayor Ross, are simply endeavoring to throw dust in the eyes of Europe.

AN ESSAY ON THE MULE.—The mule is a half horse and half jackass, and there comes to a full stop, nature refusing to refer her mistake. The weight more according to their bell than any other creature except a crowbar. The kant hear enny quicker, nor further, than the hoss, yet their ears are big enough for snow-shoes. You can trust them with enny one whose life ain't worth more than the mule's. The only way to keep them into a pasture, is to turn them into a madder juben, and let them jump out. Tha are ready for use just as soon as the will do to abuse. Tha baint got enny more friends than a Chatham street Jew, and will live on buckberry brush, with an occasional chase at Kentucky thistle. Tha are a mule in invenshun; I don't think the Bible deludes to them at all. Tha sell for more money than enny other domestic animal. You cant tell their age by looking into their mouth, enny more than you could a Mexican cannon. Tha never had no disease that a good club won't heal. If they ever die, they must come right to life again, for I never heard nobody say "die" mule. Tha are like sun men, very corrupt at hart; I've known them to be good for six months just to get a chance to kick somebody. I never owned one nor never mean to, unless there is United States law passed requirin it. The only reason why they are pusant, is because they are ashamed of themselves. I have seen edited mules in a circus—tha could kick and bite tremenjus. I would not say what I am forced to say agin the mule, if his birth was an outrage, and be haint to blame for it. Enny man who is willing to drive a mule ought to be exempt by law from running for the legislature. Tha are the strongest creature on earth, and heaviest according to their size; I heard tell of one who fell off from the tow-path on the Kanawha, an sunk as soon as he touched bottom, but he kept right on towin the boat to the next station, breathin through his ears, which was out of water about 3 feet 6 inches. I didn't see this, but an auctioneer told me ov it, and I never knew an auctioneer to lie unless he could make something out of it.
